

YANK INVADERS ADVANCING ON SAIPAN

Hitler Releases Boasted Terror Weapon On England

GLIDER BOMBS AIMED AGAINST SOUTH OF ISLE

"Secret Weapon" Apparently
Launched From Area
Across Channel

FIRST EFFECTS SLIGHT

Attack Falls Far Short Of Hun Propaganda Claims
Of Wiping Out Cities

BULLETIN
LONDON, June 16—Reports
from Southern England said
that additional radio-controlled German "glider bombs" have fallen in daylight today on Southern England.

Some property damage was sustained this afternoon—including a British hospital which was hit. Two nurses and a number of patients were injured
when the institution was struck.

LONDON, June 16—A German
"secret weapon" which Hitler
boasted would demoralize and dis-organize any Allied invasions is being used today to try to terrorize the people of Southern England.

In the form of pilotless aircraft,
the new weapon apparently is being launched from a cross-channel area. It is reported by observers to be a highly explosive bomb mounted on wings, propelled by rocket power and directed by radio control.

Observers believe that the robot,
winged bomb is difficult to control
and inaccurate and that it can
merely be sent over a general area,
then dropped indiscriminately.

The first effects of the launching of this new Nazi terror weapon
fell far short of the German propaganda which hinted darkly
that it would change the entire course of the war by wiping out entire cities and cutting down Allied armies in one fell swoop.

No Surprise
The pilotless bomber attack on Southern England during the night and early today was the first mass debut of the secret weapon Allied commanders long suspected was the same weird radio-controlled bomb which appeared over channel shipping not long ago. It is a variation of the air-borne shell which circled over the beachhead in Italy and last week was chasing a German reconnaissance plane, which had accompanied it, back to the father-
land.

The winged bomb reportedly is mounted on wide glider-like mono-
wings with some form of rocket power at the end of the shell.

One of the winged robots dipped
in and out of the clouds over one southern English city in daylight

IMPORTANT JAP STEEL CITY TARGET OF GIANT SUPER FORTS ON INITIAL RAID

B-29 Bombardier Has Good Target View

COMMANDING a better view of his target than any other bombardier, the Superfortress B-29 bombardier and his bombsight, both of which played a major part in the bombing of the Japanese homeland, sit up in the long nose of the B-29, shown above, just ahead and a step below the pilot and co-pilot. All secret equipment in the giant plane can be destroyed with dispatch to prevent it from falling to enemy hands. Inset above shows Brig. Gen. Kenneth B. Wolfe of Riverside, Cal., who heads the 20th bomber command which carried out the raid against the Nips.

JAPS SURPRISED BY SUPER FORTS

Eyewitness Tells How New
B-29 Performed in
First Big Raid

(Editor's Note: Here is the first eye-witness description of the historic attack on Japan by American Super-Fortresses yesterday. It was broadcast from Chungking today by Roy Porter, representing the combined Allied networks.)

By ROY PORTER
CHUNGKING, June 16—The attacks were swift and surprising.
They came with almost complete amazement to the Japs. We'd run into rigorous action with that mysterious weapon of American planning and skill, the Super-Fortress known as the B-29.

Tons upon tons of bombs were dropped on the coke-ovens and open-hearth furnaces. Japanese anti-aircraft fire poured into the sky. And shell-fragments dug deeply into the Super-Bombers,
but the engines kept turning and
nearly all the ships came home.
Eleven war correspondents went on the trip to see, at the invitation of the 20th Bomber Command, the show of shows. And when the planes had turned homeward, leaving behind the glowing masses of wreckage Japan had had her answer to December 7, 1941, at Pearl Harbor.

It's not too much to say that the
silver and olive drab dragon-flies,

FOREIGN POLICY DRAWS FIRE OF MAINE SENATOR

NEW YORK, June 16—The Roosevelt administration stood sharply rebuked today by Senator Ralph O. Brewster, Maine Republican for "lack of foreign policy."
"America is like a 10-year-old boy sitting down in an international poker game, with no conception of the stakes," Senator Brewster declared. He pictured Secretary of State Hull as being deprived of real control of our foreign policy "through the overwhelming impulses of the President."

13,000 PETITION DEWEY TO TAKE GOP NOMINATION

ALBANY, N. Y., June 16—Petitions signed by 13,000 citizens of Michigan urged today that Gov.
Thomas E. Dewey of New York
accept the Republican presidential nomination.

Although Dewey was at his Pauling, N. Y., home resting and could not be reached for comment,
political observers said it was significant that the governor's office
announced receipt of the petitions
from Michigan, the chief executive's native state.

The documents, received in Albany by W. R. Wooden, of Battle Creek, said that Dewey's record
as governor of the Empire State, advocacy of clean government, his broad view on the part America
must play in the post-war world,
"have made him the first choice in virtually every poll for the presidency."

BRADLEY NOW DIRECTS YANKS FROM NORMANDY

LONDON, June 16—Supreme Allied headquarters announced officially today that Lieut. Gen.
Omar N. Bradley, hero of Tunisia
and Sicily, had established headquarters in France from which he is directing all American ground
forces in Normandy.

The headquarters announcement permits disclosure that Gen.
Bradley went ashore for the first time from the American flagship Augusta the day following the initial landings in France.

Since then he had made regular
all-day trips to the beachhead
until establishing his headquarters
there.

On one occasion, Bradley—
known as the "doughboy's general"—was bracketed by enemy
shell fire as he reached the beach.
Another time, German strafing aircraft came over, but the three-starred general just stood bolt upright and watched them while others sought cover. Later, Bradley explained that he could tell
"by the angle" that the enemy
machines were going to pull out before reaching the spot where he stood.

House Starts Debate On Bill
Creating Machinery On Contract Cancellation

WASHINGTON, June 16—The bombing of Japan and the opening of a new Pacific offensive spurred congress into action on war contract termination legislation today.

While a senate committee began consideration of proposals for postwar unemployment benefits
the house started debate on the Walter bill creating the machinery
for speedy settlement of cancelled
war contracts.

In both house and senate, the clear intent of leaders in both parties was to send a contract termination bill to the White House
before congress recesses late next week for the two political conventions.

The house measure, a modification of the George-Murray bill
which already has passed the senate, was taken up shortly after the lower branch learned of the B-29 raid on Japan and the American invasion of Saipan.

Rep. Colmer (D) Miss., chairman of the house postwar economic policy committee noted that,
just as the Jap bombing raid was announced on the floor of the house, some day the "dramatic announcement" of the war's end
would be made to members.

"When that moment comes we want to be ready," he warned.
"Congress has just as great a responsibility to prepare for that day as we had to prepare for warfare."

RETURNING FLYERS TELL OF PIN POINT BLASTING OF NIPS

None of B-29's Lost As Result of Enemy Action
Despite Intense Anti-Aircraft Fire and Interceptor Planes—Raid Sets Records

WASHINGTON, June 16—The War department disclosed
today that America's new giant B-29 Super-Fortress bombers blasted with pin-point accuracy the important Japanese steel manufacturing center of Yawata, 550 miles southwest of Tokyo.
In a preliminary report on the bombing of the Japanese mainland which electrified the world yesterday, the War department revealed that the gigantic bombers took off from an undisclosed, recently completed base in China.

The announcement stated that a "sizeable" task force of the giant sky raiders hit important enemy industrial targets, and fliers returning from the mission said bombing was accurate
and that large fires and explosions were observed.

None of the Super-Fortresses was lost as the result of enemy action despite the fact that anti-aircraft fire was intense and Jap aircraft attempted to intercept the American sky giants.

"Two B-29's were lost as the result of accidents, one crew
of which is safe," the communique added.

The B-29's must have flown a minimum of 1,100 miles from their bases to the bombed Japanese area. Maps disclosed that all area within a 1,000 mile radius of Yawata is in Japanese hands, and therefore, the huge planes must have flown more than that distance to reach their target.

Tokyo radio earlier admitted
the bombing attacks and asserted that the targets were Yawata, as well as the cities of Moji and Kokura but the enemy
broadcast said that little damage
was done.

All three cities are important Japanese industrial centers turning out war materials and are located on the island of Kyushu.
Kyushu is southernmost of Hon-
shu, Japan's main island.

Tokyo also reported that the raising armada included Liberators and Super Fortresses, and that six of the planes were shot down, including at least one of the B-29s.

Earlier the Jap radio said the raid resulted in damage to the Ori-Hakata railroad, but claimed that damage to industrial areas
was slight.

The attack was led by Brig.
Gen. Laverne "Blondie" Saunders,
former West Point football star
and represented the first coordinated blow at Japanese industry.
The Yawata steel mills are the

WLB SOON TO GET WARD CASE, UNIONISTS SAY

CHICAGO, June 16—Union leaders declared today that the dispute with Montgomery Ward & Co., would be placed in the hands
of the War Labor Board again
within a few days.

The announcement was made by Miss Frances Slotkin, international representative of the Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employes Union, CIO, who said contract negotiations had broken down completely last night.

"The company has categorically rejected every proposal made by the union and in some instances ridiculous counter proposals were made," she declared.

John A. Barr, attorney in charge of labor relations for the company, said "the only thing
that stands in the way of a contract is the company's position on a closed shop."

Miss Slotkin countered that the company had rejected "every single" union demand and that
"the union shop is only one issue."

JAPS INTRODUCE NEW METHOD OF FIGHTING YANKS

NEW YORK, June 16—Japanese propagandists, explaining away yesterday's B-29 super-Fortress raid on the Jap mainland, hit a new high today.
"We should not think," said
one Jap propagandist as reported by OWI, "that we have been passively attacked, but that we have actively pulled the enemy
toward us."

DORIS DUKE TO GO OVERSEAS AS WAR WORKER

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 16
—Tobacco heiress Doris Duke Cromwell will go overseas July 1,
as a war worker in a United Seamen's Service residential center
just opened in an invaded French seaport.

Mrs. Cromwell arrived in New Orleans today to complete training begun in New York. She will serve as a field worker in the United Seamen's Service Hotel
Carol from now until she sails.
Her overseas duties will include
the handling of repatriation cases
for the war shipping administration and her pay will be one dollar
a year.

Seamen call her Doris and service officials say she likes it.

BURGLARS GET $100 IN RAID ON VFW HOME

More than $100 in silver was taken by thieves who entered the Veterans of Foreign Wars home,
North Court street before 3:30
a. m. Friday.

Walter Crissinger, merchant policeman called E. W. Keys, at 3:30 o'clock and told him that a window
in the rear of the club had been broken.

Keys came to the home and found that some one had been in the bar room where things were disarranged. William Frazier, bartender, reported that all the silver
he had for change had been taken.

Police Chief William McCrady
and Patrolmen Shasteen and Mer-rigan investigated.

ALLIES ACCEPT PEACE MEET BID

Washington Conference Aims
As Insuring Against Future World Wars

WASHINGTON, June 16—It
was learned today that the three other members of the Allied "Big Four"—Great Britain, Russia,
and China—have accepted United States invitation to a Washington conference for the purpose of establishing a new international organization to maintain peace.

This followed on the heels of President Roosevelt's disclosure of the blueprint for the new organization as prepared by American officials.

Meanwhile, members of the senate, which must ratify any treaty
making the plan effective, indicated it will be subjected to close scrutiny before approval is given.

The organization, with an assembly, a council and a world
court—strikingly similar to the old League of Nations—was criticized by some senators as paving
the way for a "power politics" alliance which might provoke war.

SOCIALISTS OF CANADA SCORE FIRST VICTORY

OTTAWA, Ont., June 16—Election returns in the province of Saskatchewan disclosed today
that the Socialist party had been elevated to power for the first time in any dominion or provincial general election in the history of Canada.

The Cooperative Commonwealth Federation elected its candidates in 31 constituencies, was leading in 11 others and still had
to hear of results in four others.
Four liberals will be elected in other ridings and in a fifth their candidate was leading.

The Socialists have replaced the Provincial Liberal party which has been in power since 1934, but the defeat was not unexpected because reports from CCF campaign
managers for some time had indicated definite swing to the "left"
in the province.

American Forces Advance In

SUPREME ALLIED HEAD-

Allied gains toward the last German supply route connecting the great port of Cherbourg with the rest of Normandy were reported by Supreme headquarters
today.

American troops are now
within two and one half miles
of St. Sauveur the spokesman for General Eisenhower said.
This town controlled the last
enemy supply route to Cherbourg.

Another road junction two and one half miles southwest of Carentan has been captured,
headquarters said.

British troops have pressed
two miles south of captured Caumont and have now met the enemy in force at a point approximately 25 miles inland.

Weather conditions on the beaches was described as the worst since D-Day and has hampered Allied operations.

By International News Service
A widening wedge was being driven today into the inner island
defenses of the Japanese empire
by powerful American amphibious
forces advancing inland from secured beachheads on Saipan island in the Marianas, 1,450 miles southeast of Tokyo.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz,
commander in chief of Pacific ocean area forces, announced in his latest communique that generally heavy fighting was in progress on Saipan with United States assault troops encountering enemy artillery, mortar and machine gun fire.

But the beachheads have been secured, said the official statement, and "good progress is being made against well organized enemy defenses" following capture of Aginan point, on the southwest corner of the strategic island.

Bitter fighting was raging in the town of Charan Kanoa, two miles north of Aginan point,
indicating that the American in-vadars have advanced at least
that distance since they stormed Saipan's beaches under cover of a thunderous naval and aerial bombardment.

Jap Drives Halted

Several counter attacks featuring the use of tanks were launched
by the Japs, but their attempts to repulse the invasion were bro-

support of accurate naval gunfire and pinpoint bombing.

NEW YORK — A harried man, made articulate by desperation, explained at the watch counter of a department store that he wanted a watch "without gadgets." He didn't want one, he said, that he could wear under a shower, nor one that would forecast the weather. "I just want a watch that will tell me approximately whether it is morning or afternoon," he declared. The clerk was cooing at him soothingly.

largest in the Japanese empire, producing one-fifth of the nation's total steel.

Brilliant searchlights aided the bombardiers in finding their targets.

The first pilot over Yawata was Maj. Donald Humphrey of Postville, Ia. He flashed the code word "Betty" three times at 10:58 p. m. "Betty" was picked as the code word for the initial bombing because it is the name of the wife of Lieut. Col. James Garcia of Weirton, W. Va., chief of the bomber command intelligence section.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, June 16—Several Allied planes raided objectives on the Korean peninsula adjacent to the Japanese home islands, the Jap Domei agency reported today.

The Domei report was recorded by FCC monitors. The wireless dispatch was in Romanized Japanese and intended for consumption in occupied East Asia areas.

get himself in a Super-Fortress piloted by Lt. Col. Winton Close, who is married to Betty's sister, Jane.

In addition to steel mills, the target area includes within a 50-mile circle a concentration of large shipping installations so that it was almost impossible to waste even those few bombs which may have missed the main objective.

When news of the arrival of the first ship was flashed, Brigadier-General Wolfe said:

"This is but the beginning of the destruction of the Japanese industrial empire."

And Major-General Stratemeyer, extending his congratulations to Wolfe, added:

"This is the start of the finish."

The raid itself was described by Sgt. Louis Stoumen of Bethlehem, Pa., as "just like riding in a Pullman car."

"There was no lurch when the bombs left the plane," he continued.

"We saw many searchlights and much flak, some right near our plane, but there was no fighter interception. Our bombardier thought he got our bombs smack on the target."

During the flight, the crews ate chicken sandwiches and candy bars and chewed gum—and returned just in time to dig into a heavy breakfast.

One excited gunner took time out from between mouthfuls to interject, "say, it looked like the fourth of July out there. It really was colorful, and I'm not kidding."

The inaccuracy of the Japanese anti-aircraft fire was testified to in the fact that no flak holes were found in any of the craft.

Official sources disclosed that the super-fortresses had a shake-down raid in daylight June 5 against the Macksan railroad repair shops at Bangkok, which at that time was announced as a B-24 Liberator raid.

'MAIN STREET'

NEW YORK—An eloquent sales talk on the beauty of New York's Fifth Avenue, delivered at the United Nations recreation club, left the recipient singularly unimpressed. A shy young officer from Georgia, he couldn't be sold on the idea of a sightseeing tour—until he was told, "Why, Fifth Avenue is our Main Street." Then his face lit up. He accepted a map of the city and a theater ticket, and sallied forth.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Marine Corporal (Preacher) Dorsett, former Cleveland pitcher, arrived "Somewhere in the Pacific" in time to pitch his outfit's team to the division championship. He won three games by shutouts, one a no-hitter, reports Staff Sergeant Hy Hurwitz, former Boston Globe baseball writer and now a Marine Corps combat correspondent.

It was attacked by others as being too weak to be effective.

Bids Accepted

Official replies to the invitation for a Washington conference have been received from the British and Chinese governments. Though no formal word has been received from Moscow, Soviet participation was taken for granted in view of the fact that the Washington meeting was first proposed by Foreign Commissar Molotov at the Moscow conference last October.

It was believed the conference will be held in August.

The outline presented by President Roosevelt makes it clear that the Big Four nations are to be the pillars of the new organization. He said that the four major nations, together with a "suitable number of other nations" would make up a "council" which presumably would have executive authority for the whole organization.

A larger body, which the President described as "fully representative," would consist of members of each country, large and small, like the assembly of the league of nations.

It has been reported that the authors of the blueprint intend that membership in the council should be limited to six—the Big Four, plus two other "revolving" members. This plan would give other states temporary participation on the council, but would insure that the Big Four could be outvoted at any time.

The President's statement specified that there would also be an international court of justice.

And finally he declared that the decision of this organization should be enforced not by an international police force—which he specifically ruled out—but by joint action of the armed forces of member nations.

This implied that the United States would have to be prepared to send its forces overseas to put down conflicts in other parts of the world—an obligation which the United States senate refused to assume following the last war.

DUESTEIN FUNERAL

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 2:30 p. m. in Calvary Lutheran church, Chillicothe, for Mrs. Ida Florence Duestein, 79, who died Wednesday at her home in Green township, Ross county. She was the daughter of the late John and Mary Corp. Hilton. Surviving are the husband, Valentine Duestein; three sisters, Mrs. Jesse Dennis, Columbus, Mrs. Wilson Montgomery, Kingston, and Mrs. Martha Coverdale, Columbus; and a brother, Irvin Hilton, of Jamestown. She leaves also a niece, Mrs. Mattie Jerou, and nephew, John Moore, Columbus, whom she reared. Burial will be in Mt. Carmel cemetery.

BEACHHEADS ON VITAL ISLAND MADE SECURE

heads had been established and located ground fighting only at Charan Kanoa, a sugar mill town five miles south of Garapan, Saipan's major port.

It appeared, however, that the Americans were advancing along the thirteen-mile-long island from more than one beachhead, giving rise to the possibility that the fanatically resisting Japanese defenders face an inevitable pincer.

Virtually all the enemy's large coastal guns and anti-aircraft batteries were demolished by withering naval bombardments and aerial bombings the preceded actual landing operations.

Nevertheless, the communique indicated American assault troops were up against some of the stiffest opposition yet encountered in any Pacific amphibious operation.

Yanks Confident

Confidence in our ability to retain the initiative was reflected in the disclosure that warships and carrier planes were still supporting ground forces, knocking out tanks and gun defenses blocking the paths of advance across the island.

American airborne, armored and infantry forces—pacing the Allied invasion drive in Normandy—smashed deeper across the Cherbourg peninsula today in their drive to isolate the great port of Cherbourg.

Headquarters declared that the threat to the peninsula was growing substantially, and that all attempts by the Germans to gain the initiative have been frustrated.

On the northern French beachhead, meanwhile, the Allied forces of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower continued to increase their threat to the enemy within Cherbourg. One U. S. column was within six miles of La Haye Du Puits, key railroad junction whose capture would virtually seal the doom of the Nazi garrison within the important port at the tip of the embattled peninsula.

Every Nazi counter-attack thus far has been successfully quelled, headquarters declared. Heavy fighting continued to rage both in the Tilly-sur-Seulles and Caen sectors, and an obscure condition prevailed around Montebourg, 15 miles below the port of Cherbourg.

On the other European front, where British-American forces are making it hot for the Germans, Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson's Fifth and Eighth armies stormed steadily north of Rome to a point halfway to the key city of Florence.

Leading elements of the Fifth Army approached Grosseta, vital communications center 110 miles northwest of the Eternal City, after capturing Aquafendente and other towns. The British Eighth Army, meantime, swept forward 25 miles to seize Todt after previously capturing Narni and the road hub of Terni.

Soviet legions with strong air support continued their determined push up the Karelian isthmus after breaching the second strongly-fortified Finnish line and widening their front to 47 miles.

As the far northern offensive rolled through its sixth day, Red Army tank and infantry columns hurled the enemy from 18 more strongpoints and two important railway stations.

The second Finnish line, which the Soviet communique described as "saturated with permanent constructions," was broken in the Mustamaeki-Kuuterselkka area.

All told, more than 500 of the enemy's defense installations "of long-standing" were destroyed or captured by the Red Army in its 25-mile advance through the first and second Finnish lines.

American liberator bombers widened the scope of their aerial offensive against Japanese Pacific island strongholds today, having battled through violent tropical storms to blast the enemy airdrome at Yap island for the first time and provide support for U. S. amphibious forces landing at Saipan.

Yap Island is midway between Palau and the Marianas area and is on the eastern approaches to the Philippines. It has excellent airfield installations and also has been employed as a seaplane base by the Japanese Navy.

The raiders, members of Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney's Fifth Air force, battled through terrific squalls and electrical storms on their long flight to heavily-fortified Yap, 1,078 miles northwest of U. S. bases in the Admiralty islands.

A huge blanket of fire spread over the airfield area as the four-motored Liberators turned homeward.

Primary objective of the raid appeared to be of pinning down, at least temporarily, enemy air strength based on the island and preventing aerial reinforcements reaching Saipan in the Marianas. Simultaneous with announcement of the first raid on Yap, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters revealed that Woleai and Truk islands in the Carolines were again heavily raided.

Off Biak island, where American jungle troops are driving on the last two enemy-held airdromes west of captured Mokmer airstrip, light naval units destroyed three Jap barges. The enemy craft were laden with troops and supplies, apparently intended to bolster the besieged garrison in the Schouten islands of Dutch New Guinea.

"Secret Weapon" Apparently
Launched From Area

today, playing tag with terrific anti-aircraft barrages and finally glided down, struck a house and exploded.

Several persons were killed and one was injured in one southern English district and it was believed that a number of people were trapped in debris. Rescue work is proceeding.

Elsewhere two farm houses and some cottages were damaged and a horse was killed.

Unveiled Early

Stockholm reports as early as last January suggested that the Germans intended to use pilotless planes when the Allies invaded the continent. The machines then were described as small, single-engined planes which could be catapulted from the ground and steered by radio.

The winged robots were over Southern England at intervals for many hours during the night and early today.

Descriptions of the secret weapon all agree on these three points:

1. That the weapon has terrific speed.

2. That the robots bear height lights.

3. That there are exhaust flames.

This much-advertised "secret weapon," loaded with explosives, has a short slender body, with a box like arrangement at the tail. One was seen careening across the sky today at great speed, on a dead straight course.

There was no panic among the crowd watching the plane streak across the sky—merely a curiosity to know how effective the new weapon was. Most active and interested were school boys, who raced to places where the aircraft had crashed in order to collect souvenirs.

People who have been through blitzes in various parts of Southern England are disposed to treat the new kind of raids with a cautious contempt and as a new "horror" air weapon, which it is believed will be negated by Britain's counter measures.

Morrison's statement today shows that a number of these pilotless planes have been destroyed before they could reach targets.

Last February Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons that the Germans were preparing on the French shore new means of attack on Britain—either by pilotless aircraft, possibly rockets or both on a considerable scale.

For weeks the Pas De Calais area of Northern France, called "the rocket coast" was pounded by all types of bombers.

WAR PARTNERS

MANY of our fellow-Americans seem to think, or at least to feel, that our country is fighting this European war virtually alone and unaided. It therefore comes with a little shock of surprise when one of our doughty patriots suddenly comes across a bit of news telling of a German ship being blown up by a combined attack from British, Canadian and Polish destroyers, as happened the other day.

As a matter of fact, there is nothing exclusive about "our" war against Germany. Anybody can get in. And the number of nations now engaged in fighting beside our own forces includes all the free nations of Europe, and various others from other continents. Britain and America are doing most of the financing of the friendly nations on our side, but the latter cheerfully do their share of the fighting and dying. And it is not only fair, but highly desirable, that such valiant partners and the countries they represent should have full recognition.

TREE MEMORIALS

PERSONS who have lost loved ones naturally wish to keep their memory green. As a tombstone is noticed by few, other forms of memorial have occurred to many people. Some give books to public libraries; these books contain memorial plates, bringing home the name of the deceased to readers of kindred tastes.

Another possibility is found in memorial trees. The Arnold Arboretum, Harvard University's outdoor laboratory for studying trees, now suggests the suitability of this form of commemoration. "A great tree memorial is in California," says the Arboretum, "where a block of redwood forest on the Eel River was dedicated in 1921 to the memory of Col. Raynal C. Bolling of the American Aviation Service, who was killed in France on March 26, 1918."

Apart from the distinction and permanence of such a memorial, there is also the opportunity to save valuable trees. The Bolling memorial is a part of the redwood forest, other portions of which are in danger. A Save-the-Redwoods League has been formed by the University of California, and has the backing of the Arboretum.

What more dignified and satisfactory memorial could be found?

Most tenants think their landlords are tightwads, and most landlords think that their tenants are wasteful. Could both be right?

Another little hundred-dollar bond salted down will not do you any harm. Especially if you keep it salted down.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

BRITISH NAVY CREDITED

WASHINGTON—Adlai Stevenson, civilian assistant to the late Secretary of the Navy Knox, is leaving the Navy to try to buy Knox's newspaper, the Chicago Daily News. Stevenson, most up-and-coming young executive in the Navy, went to Italy last fall, recommended immediate ousting of the King and Badoglio, putting in a democratic regime. Now, six months later, his ideas are carried out. Grandson of Vice President Adlai Stevenson of the second Grover Cleveland Administration, Adlai was FDR's choice to be the new Undersecretary of the Navy, but Forrestal said no.

UNION JACK—British limies deserve a good share of the credit for the blasting of Hitler's Atlantic Wall before the Allies waded ashore. The British Navy has the chief command in Channel waters, steamed in close and demolished Nazi pillboxes, forts and everything else within twelve miles of shore. It was the job which Navy guns should have done on the bloody island of Tarawa. We learned our lesson there—namely, that air bombing can't do everything. U. S. warships also did a good job along the Channel, except that Admiral Alan Kirk, either because he got his signals mixed or because the weather was bad, failed to blast one Nazi beach. That was where U. S. troops got caught in a murderous cross-fire and were slaughtered.

HOLLYWOOD AMBASSADOR—Eric Johnston, who has been telling it to the Soviets as U. S. Chamber of Commerce Ambassador, has a new job virtually cinched when he comes home:—Hollywood's ambassador to Washington. The movie industry long has wanted an outstanding figure to represent it in the capital, and the moguls have decided on Johnston, except for Warner Brothers. They don't seem so sure that forthright Eric is the man.

GOOD NEWS—The Pacific fighting is ahead of schedule. That is why lights have been burning late in the FEA's Office of Economic Warfare recently. The war chiefs suddenly decided they needed certain information regarding the location of buildings inside Japan and called on Economic Warfare to produce it in a hurry. This means that attacks on Tokyo, Osaka, Yokohama and Kobe probably will come sooner than expected. Also it probably means that the win-quick school of strategists in the Army and Navy have won out. They have favored by-passing a lot of Pacific islands, also the jungles of Burma, instead of wasting men and munitions in a seven-year war.

BARUCH SIMMERS—Bernie Baruch, the charming sage of post-war conversion, talked about going on the radio last week to answer critics who said his post-war plans had left out labor. But big news broke across the Channel, and Bernie decided there was no use competing with the invasion. Bernie is super-sensitive about any criticism of his post-war plans and may explode soon. Among his friendly critics, however, is his recent guest at Hobcaw Barony, S. C. That friendly critic, now moved back to the White House, leans toward Senator Kilgore's bill on post-war conversion as providing more than a crate of apples for the veterans.

LAFF-A-DAY

DIET AND HEALTH

Gallbladder Upsets Helped By Diet

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

A CORRESPONDENT writes: "Would you please send me a list of things I might eat as a diet for an upset of the gallbladder. I have a list of what not to eat and it seems to include everything. As far as I can see this list contains everything anyone should eat in order to be at all healthy and gain resistance to fight other diseases or colds. It must be that there is a regular gallbladder diet list by some doctor though I have been unable to obtain any support to that effect."

The diet planned by Dr. F. R. Anderson is well suited to gallbladder dyspepsia and periodic upsets due to mild gallbladder stasis in which the condition is not severe enough or for some other reason surgical intervention is not justified.

It is based on a diet high in fat and on frequent small meals, six a day, rather than three large meals.

Six Small Meals

The principles on which this diet is based are that the dyspeptic troubles due to gallbladder depend on stasis of the bile in the gallbladder and infection. In both drainage is indicated and this is obtained by frequent feedings high in fat. Adequate drainage sufficient to overcome gallbladder stasis is accomplished by the presence in an emulsified state of fat in the upper part of the small intestine. Large meals cause pressure and back-damping in the gallbladder while small frequent meals give an effect of continuous drainage and also supply sufficient nourishment.

Dr. Anderson's sample diet is as follows for one day:
Breakfast—Milk; one glass.
Cereal: with cream and sugar.

Egg: soft boiled or poached. Bread and butter. Fruit: raw, of any kind.

Mid-morning—Milk and crackers; bread and butter, or cake.

Luncheon—Milk: one glass. Egg: soft boiled or poached, or cream cheese. Potatoes: baked or mashed. Vegetables: well cooked, any kind. Salad. Bread and butter. Pudding, ice cream, jello or fruit (raw or cooked).

Mid-afternoon—Milk and crackers; bread and butter, or cake.

Supper—Same as luncheon.

Bedtime (and in night if awake)—Milk and crackers; bread and butter, or cake.

Olive Oil— $\frac{1}{2}$ ounce, or cream, 1 ounce, three times daily with meals.

Water—At least 4 or 5 glasses a day.

Alleviates Symptoms

Patients should be warned that the diet may aggravate the condition for a short time, but that by adherence to the regimen all symptoms will eventually be alleviated. The diet should not be prescribed when evidence such as slight jaundice indicates blockage of the common duct. If, after reasonable trial, symptoms persist complications which demand surgical intervention may be assumed.

Bile salts by mouth will also help by draining the contents of the gallbladder into the intestines, and are sometimes used along with the diet. But the diet alone, if used faithfully, will cause the contents of the gallbladder to drain into the intestines and thus tend to prevent complications.

The above one day's diet is only a sample. It does not take much ingenuity to plan varied diets for other days if you keep to the general principles of small, frequent meals containing staple articles high in fat—such as butter, cream, eggs, cheese, salad dressings.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

"Hello," saluted Pat. "Isn't it early for a call, Mr. Dakin?" The Chief shrugged. Bradford regarded her with a furious misery. He seemed thinner, almost emaciated.

"I don't know what you can expect Nora to tell you," fumed John F. frigidly. "Patricia, sit down!" "Patricia?" said Pat. She sat down. "Patricia" was a bad sign. John F. hadn't called her Patricia in such a formal voice since the last time he'd used his old-fashioned razor strop on her, and that had been many many years ago. She did not look at Bradford once; and after that first unhappy glance, he did not look at her.

Dakin nodded pleasantly to Ellery. "Glad to see you, Mr. Smith. Now if we're all set—Cart, did you want to say something?" "Yes!" exploded Cart. "I wanted to say that I'm in an impossible position. I want to say—He made a helpless gesture and stared out the window at the snow-covered lawn.

"Now, Mrs. Haight," said Dakin, blinking at Nora, "would you mind telling us just what happened New Year's Eve as you saw it? I've got everybody else's story—"

"Mind? Why should I mind?" It came out froggy, and Nora cleared her throat. And began to talk shrilly and rapidly. "But I can't really tell you anything. I mean, all that I saw—"

"When your husband came around to you with the tray of cocktails, didn't he sort of speak out one special glass for you? I mean, didn't you want to take one glass and he fixed it so you took another?"

"How can I remember a thing like that?" asked Nora indignantly. "And that's a—a nasty implication!"

"Mrs. Haight," The Chief's voice was suddenly chilly. "Did your husband ever try to poison you before New Year's Eve?"

Nora jumped up. "No!" "You're sure, Mrs. Haight?" insisted Dakin.

"Of course I'm sure!" "There's nothing you can tell us about the fights or arguments you and Mr. Haight been having?"

"Fights!" Nora was livid now. "I suppose it's that horrible DuPre creature—"

"The or?" so odd even Carter Bradford turned from the window. Nora had uttered the word with a sudden sickish emphasis and glared directly at Ellery. Dakin and Bradford glanced quickly at him, and Pat looked terrified.

"Or what, Mrs. Haight?" asked Dakin.

"Nothing. Nothing! Why don't you let Jim alone?" Nora was crying hysterically now. "All of you!"

Dr. Willoughby came in with his big man's light step; Ludie's face, white and anxious, peered over his shoulder, then vanished.

"Nora," he said with concern. "Crying again? Dakin, I warned you—"

"Can't help it, Doc," said the Chief with dignity. "I got my job to do, and I'm doing it. Mrs. Haight, if there's nothing you can tell us that helps your husband—"

"He didn't do it, I tell you!" "Nora," said Dr. Willoughby insistently.

"Then I'm afraid we got to do it, Mrs. Haight."

"Do what, for heaven's sake?" "Arrest your husband."

"Arrest—Jim?" Nora began to laugh, her hands in her hair. Dr. Willoughby tried to take her hands in his, but she pushed him away. "But you can't arrest Jim! He didn't do it! You haven't a thing on him—!"

"I'm sorry, Nora," mumbled Carter Bradford. Then Nora screamed at Pat: "I knew too many people knew about it! That's what comes of taking strangers into the house!" "Nora!" gasped Pat. "Darling—"

"Wait a moment, Nora," began Ellery.

"Don't you talk to me!" Nora shrieked. "You're against him because of those three letters! They wouldn't arrest Jim if you hadn't told them about the letters!"

Something in Ellery's gaze seemed to penetrate her hysteria, and Nora broke off with a gasp, away from Dr. Willoughby, an enormous new fear leaping into her eyes.

"What letters?" demanded Dakin. "No! I didn't mean—"

Carter ran over to her and seized her hand. "Nora! What letters?" he asked fiercely.

"No," groaned Nora.

"You've got to tell me! If there are letters, you're concealing evidence—"

"Mr. Smith! What do you know about this?" demanded Chief Dakin.

"Letters?" Ellery looked puzzled.

Pat rose and pushed Bradford.

He staggered back. "You let Nora alone!" said Pat in a passionate voice.

Her violence kindled the Prosecutor's resentment. He snapped, "You're not going to presume upon my friendship! Dakin, search this house, and the house next door!"

"Should have done it long ago, Cart," remarked the Chief mildly as he disappeared.

"Carter," declared John F. in very low tones, "you're never to come here again. Do you understand?"

Prosecutor Bradford looked as if he were going to cry.

And Nora collapsed in Dr. Willoughby's arms with a moan.

With Bradford's frigid permission Nora was taken upstairs to her bedroom by Dr. Willoughby, Hermie and Pat.

"Smith," Bradford did not turn. "I've got to warn you—if you're contributing to the suppression of evidence—"

"Evidence?" echoed Mr. Queen. "Those letters!"

Cart spun around, his mouth working. "You've been in my way ever since you came here," he said hoarsely. "You've wormed your way into this house—"

"Here, here," interposed Ellery. "Mind your verbs."

Cart stopped, his hands two fists. Ellery went to the window. Chief Dakin was deep in conversation with little Dick Gobbin, the patrolman, on the Haight porch. . . . The two policemen went into the house.

Fifteen minutes later Messrs. Queen and Bradford were still standing in the same positions.

Pat came in with a noise. Her face showed that she was directly to Ellery. "The most awful thing's happened." And she burst into tears.

"Pat! For heaven's sake!"

"Pat! For heaven's sake!"

"Pat! For heaven's sake!"

"Nora—Nora is—"

Pat's voice blurred and shook.

Dr. Willoughby said from the doorway: "Bradford?"

"What's happened?" asked the Prosecutor tensely.

And then Chief Dakin came in, and his face was like a mask. He was carrying Nora's hatbox and the fat tan book with the neat gilt title, Edgcomb's Toxicology.

Dakin stopped. "Happened?" he asked quickly. "What's this?"

Dr. Willoughby said: "Nora Haight is going to have a baby. In about five months."

"No..." said Bradford in a wine-voiced voice. "That's... too much."

And with a gesture toward Chief of Police Dakin he stumbled out. They heard the front door slam.

"I won't be responsible for Mrs. Haight's life," said Dr. Willoughby, "if she's put through any more scenes like the one just now. You can call in any physician to confirm what I just said. She's in an extremely nervous condition—"

"Look, Doc," demurred Dakin, "it ain't my fault if—"

"Oh, go to blazes!" exploded Dr. Willoughby. They soon heard him climbing furiously back up the stairs.

Chief Dakin stood still in the middle of the room, Nora's hatbox in one hand and Jim's book on poisons in the other.

Then he sighed and said: "But it ain't my fault. And now these three letters in Mrs. Haight's hatbox, and this medical book with the arsenic part marked up—"

Ellery's arms tightened about Pat.

"These three letters," declared Dakin doggedly. "They practically make our case. And finding 'em in Mrs. Haight's closet—"

"Don't you try to convince you!" interrupted Pat. "Would Nora have kept those letters if she thought Jim was trying to poison her?"

"So you did know about the letters," observed the Chief, blinking. "I see. And you're in on this, too, Mr. Smith. Not that I blame you. I got a family, too, and it's good to be loyal to friends. I got nothing against Jim Haight, or you, or Wright. . . . But I got to find the facts. If Jim Haight's innocent he'll be acquitted, never you worry."

Dakin shrugged and left the house, taking the evidence with him. He looked quite solemn.

At eleven o'clock, St. Valentine's morning, when all Wrightsville was giggling over comic cards and chewing gum, a car of heart-shaped boxes, Chief of Police Dakin returned to 460 Hill drive with Patrolman Charles Brady, nodded to Patrolman Dick Gobbin, and the latter knocked on the front door.

When there was no answer, they went in. They found Jim Haight snoring on the living-room sofa in a mess of cigar butt, glasses, and a half-empty whisky bottle.

Dakin shook Jim, but ungently, and finally Jim snored. "Huh?"

"James Haight," announced Dakin, holding out a blue-backed paper, "I hereby arrest you on the charge of the attempted murder of Nora Wright Haight and the murder of Rosemary Haight."

Jim screwed up his eyes; then he shouted: "No!"

"Better come without a fuss," said Dakin. . . .

40 Women Present At Country Club Party

Shower Provides Many Gifts for Kitchen

Madonna lilies, June roses and other lovely summer flowers in colorful profusion were used in the decorations of the Pickaway Country club Thursday for the delightful luncheon-bridge party. Forty women members of the club enjoyed the affair. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. L. W. Parks, of St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. Foster Weldon, Evanston, Ill.; Mrs. Joe Bell, Kings Mills; Mrs. T. D. Van Camp, Williamsport; Mrs. Thauwald, Cincinnati; Mrs. Albert E. M. Louer, Evanston, Ill.; Mrs. Robert Kelsey, Niles; Mrs. Lincoln Mader, Henderson, Ky., and Mrs. David Jackson, Camp Hood, Texas.

Luncheon at 12:30 p. m. was served at two long tables on the porch. Patriotic party appointments were enhanced with bowls of purple clematis, baby breath and feverfew. Sprays of red ranunculus were placed on the colorful table covers.

Included in the party plans was a shower for the kitchen of the club, many gifts of glasses and dish towels being received.

In the afternoon games of contract bridge, prizes for scores were awarded Mrs. David Jackson and Miss Florence Dunton.

Mrs. Robert Brehmer, club hostess for June, was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Fred Brunner, Mrs. Tom Gilliland and Mrs. Clarence Wolf.

The next social affair will be a card party, June 29.

Members of the Three T club were entertained Thursday at a luncheon meeting by Mrs. Floyd James of New Holland, who had the party at the Briggs cabin on Paint creek, near that village. The buffet luncheon at noon was followed by games of bridge played at tables under the trees.

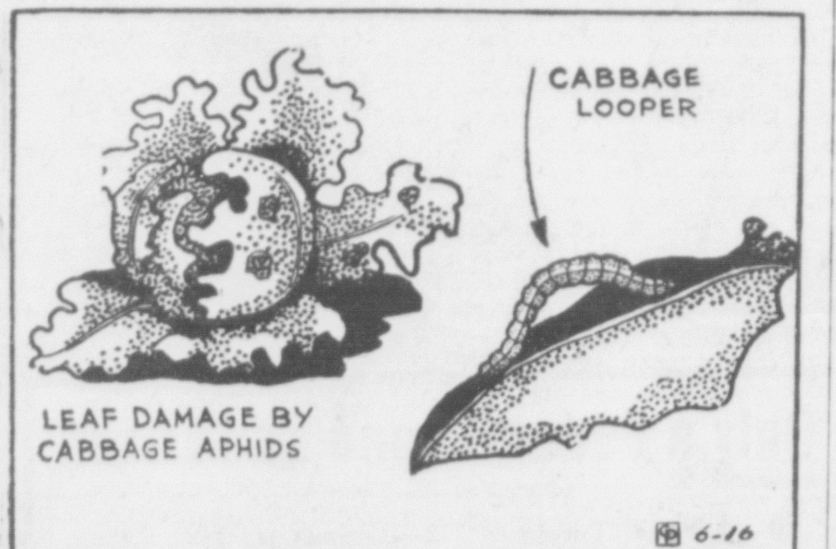

Guests at the affair were: Mrs. Joseph M. Herbert of New Cumberland, Pa., daughter of the hostess; Miss Lillie Briggs and Mrs. Francis Smith of New Holland. Club members playing included Mrs. Leslie Tarbill, who won club high; Mrs. Dudley Briggs, club low, and Mrs. Russell Ebert, traveling prize; Mrs. Roy Griffith; Mrs. Cranston McQuay; Mrs. Marvin Hosler, New Holland; Mrs. Homer Wright, Salt Creek township, and Mrs. Almer Junk, Kenia.

The July session will be omitted. The club is planning a picnic for August, the time and place to be chosen later.

Members of the congregation of St. Philip's Episcopal church enjoyed a cooperative supper Thursday in the parish house, an excellent group gathering for the evening. At the close of the delightful buffet supper, James Swearingen, senior warden of the church, presented a splendid "Sketch of the History of St. Philip's Church." It was decided to include the review in the church records.

An informal quiz program was presented, the entire group participating. Clever prizes were awarded.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Pest Control in the Cabbage Patch

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

AFTER THE VICTORY garden has been planned, prepared and planted it is unpatric to let it be ruined by insects. Vigilance, however, is required to protect the Victory garden against its enemies.

Cabbage plants, for example, have many insect enemies ready and waiting to attack them, and most of the insects which attack cabbage plants will also prey upon broccoli.

Two of the most important pests to guard against in the cabbage patch are the cabbage looper and aphids. In seeking to control these pests an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

The cabbage aphids or lice will quickly ruin a head of cabbage or broccoli, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Unless controlled dense clusters of the whitish-green lice will suck the life juices from the leaves. The afflicted leaves curl, wilt and die. The plants, if they live after uncontrolled attacks of aphids, will form only inferior, dwarfed heads.

Upon the first appearance of cabbage aphids apply a spray of nicotine sulphate, or dust with a nicotine dust or rotenone. Make sure that the spray or dust actually reaches the bodies of the aphids, as contact with the spray or dust is necessary for their destruction.

The cabbage looper, illustrated, is another pest which must be guarded against. The looper is the worm of the gray moth commonly found in the garden. The worm is so named because of its habit of "looping" its body as it crawls along a leaf upon which it is feeding.

TAKEN FOR A RIDE
PITTSBURGH, Pa., — Western Pennsylvanians are beginning to do their bit to save servicemen from wearing out their thumbs in hitch-hiking gestures. Pickup-stations for their comfort have been built in Etina and in McKeesport at busy highway intersections. Motorists who can give a man a lift are attracted by signs and by red, white and blue lights.

A Good Soldier of Christ Jesus HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 18 is II Timothy, the Golden Text being II Tim. 2:3, "Suffer hardship with me, as a good soldier of Christ Jesus.")

babblings; for they will increase unto more ungodliness."

"Free also youthful lusts; but follow righteousness, faith, charity, peace, with them that call on the Lord out of a pure heart. But foolish and unlearned questions avoid, knowing that they do gender strifes."

"And the servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient."

As an old man who is at the close of a long, hard life, Paul refers to the hardships he has suffered, the persecutions, afflictions that came to him, and reminds Timothy that "all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecutions." He urges him to "continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them."

Preach the Word
"Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all longsuffering and doctrine."

Timothy must have received this letter with tears and deep sorrow, for Paul tells him that "the time of my departure is at hand."

"I have fought the good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." He asks that Timothy come to him quickly, for only Luke is with him. He asks that a cloak that he left "at Troas with Carpus" be brought to him, as winter is coming on, and he asks Timothy to come to him before the cold weather sets in.

Men deserted him, Paul relates, but "The Lord stood with me, and strengthened me; that by me the preaching might be fully known, and that all the Gentiles might hear. . . . And the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto His heavenly kingdom: to whom be glory for ever and ever, Amen." He concludes with salutations to friends. Thus died a noble, courageous man, a good soldier.

Today is Father's Day. We could not study a more timely lesson on this day. For an ideal father would be like this man Paul—true to what he believed right; courageous, tender, loving, one who "fights a good fight," finishes his course, and keeps the faith. Let us dedicate this day to Good Fathers everywhere. Let us show them how much we love and honor them. This is an especially poignant commemoration, as so many young and older fathers are now serving on the battle-fronts of the world, "fighting the good fight" to bring Liberty and Peace.

Main Theme of Letter
The main theme of Paul's letter to Timothy, however, was to assure him of his love and tell him to "strive up the gift of God which is in thee. . . . For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind."

He urges him not to be ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, "nor of me his prisoner. . . . Hold fast the form of sound words, which thou hast heard of me, in faith and love which is in Christ Jesus."

No finer picture was ever given concerning the ideal young minister of God. Timothy was advised to "endure hardship, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ." Not to tangle himself with the affairs of this life. "Study to shew thyself approved under God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. "But shun profane and vain

PIN-WORMS At Last—A Real Treatment!

You may not realize how many of your neighbors—grown-ups as well as children—have Pin-Worms at this very moment. People don't talk about this nasty infection. Sometimes they are too embarrassed to mention the tormenting rectal itching; and up to now they have usually suffered in silence because they have not known of any effective way to deal with this dreadful pest that lives inside the human body.

Important Medical Discovery
Today, thanks to a valuable scientific discovery, a remarkable new treatment has been made possible. It is based on a special drug, known as gentian violet. This drug is the vital element in P-W, the new Pin-Worm tablets developed by Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicine. P-W tablets are small and easy to take, and they act in a special, gentle way to destroy Pin-Worms.

It is very easy to "catch" this nasty infection, and the ugly creatures can cause real distress. So watch for the signs that may mean Pin-Worms: itching seat, uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, nervous fidgeting. If you suspect Pin-Worms, get a box of P-W right away and follow the simple directions carefully.

P-W means Pin-Worm relief!

ARMSTRONG AN EASY WINNER IN DAVIS GO

NEW YORK, June 16—Henry Armstrong of Los Angeles, who has been washed up at least twice in his career, has a new lease on life today, and can look forward to the resumption of his starring bouts at Madison Square Garden.

Thoroughly discredited after a terrible performance against Sugar Ray Robinson in the Garden last August, the object of unhealthy rumors about the state of his eyesight, and loser only two weeks ago to Willie Joyce in Chicago, Henry had little to lose when he went into the Garden ring last night against Al (Bummy) Davis, of New York.

Nothing, indeed, was lost except Bummy's senses which were pounded out of him in 59 seconds of the second round in a scheduled ten rounder.

Bummy was knocked colder than an Eskimo's nose, beaten in such clear fashion that his handlers labored mightily to bring him back to consciousness. Thus was destroyed at least a part of Davis' prestige which soared to its dizzy height when Bummy scored a quick knockout two months ago over Bob Montgomery, of Philadelphia.

At the same weight, 141½, the fighters opened the battle with a two minute stand, head against head, featuring close in-fighting. Davis seemed to be getting the better of it when Henry, former holder of three titles, straightened up and lashed Al to his knees with a right.

Davis was up at the count of eight, and immediately was sent bouncing out onto the apron of the ring under a left. Davis picked himself up off his back and wobbled through the ropes, then was saved by the bell.

The end came soon after the opening of the second. Davis hit the deck and arose after a three count, his wits addled. Henry measured him carefully and applied the coup de grace—a short chopping left. Davis slumped forward on his face and was carried to his corner, limp.

RED BIRDS TO FACE PIRATES IN EXHIBITION

COLUMBUS, June 16—Although no association game is scheduled for today, Columbus Red Birds fans will have the opportunity to see Frankie Frisch's second place Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League, play an exhibition tonight with the Red Birds.

Frisch, one of baseball's greats, will be, along with his team, guests of the Old Time ball players association, sponsors of the contest. The game will be played at Red Bird Stadium at 8:15 p. m. tonight.

REDS BUY GUMBERT

CINCINNATI, June 16—Harry Gumbert, St. Louis Cardinal hurler, today was acquired by the Cincinnati Reds. The 30-year-old Gumbert has a record of 98 games won and 70 losses. He has been in the National League since 1935. A sum of $25,000 was reported to have been involved in the deal.

The Louisville Colonels took both games of a doubleheader from Minneapolis, 10 to 5 and 6 to 4.

The Louisville aggregation luckily rallied in the sixth inning of the second game for three runs. Then the game was called to allow the Colonels to catch a train.

No games were scheduled for today in the association.

WEATHER HALTS REDS' EFFORT TO CATCH BREWS

By International News Service.
The Columbus Red Birds today had been stopped by the elements in their efforts to catch up with the league-leading Milwaukee Brewers.

The game had to be called in the seventh inning yesterday when a violent wind storm struck Borchert Field causing a section of the stands to collapse and injuring at least six persons.

At the time the storm caused the game to be called, the score stood 5 to 5. No fracas is scheduled for today.

At St. Paul, the Indianapolis Indians evened up the present series as Bob Logan hurled the midwesterners to a 3 to 2 victory over the Saints.

He allowed only seven hits and had the hometown in complete check except in the second inning when three successive hits on him produced a run. The Saints took the edge in the fifth with a second run, but an error, a base on balls, and two singles and a double, put the game on ice for the visitors.

The Louisville Colonels took both games of a doubleheader from Minneapolis, 10 to 5 and 6 to 4.

The Louisville aggregation luckily rallied in the sixth inning of the second game for three runs. Then the game was called to allow the Colonels to catch a train.

No games were scheduled for today in the association.

CHAMP, AND CHAMP-TO-BE

KEITH NUTTALL, the 13-year-old Salt Lake City, Utah, boy who is being boomed by boxing writers from coast to coast for his amazing class in the ring at such an early age, is shown with former Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey, left, now a commander in the U. S. Coast Guard, and his father, Morris Nuttall. Keith, praised by such ring greats as Henry Armstrong, has made a movie. (International)

INDIANS EVEN REDS SMARTING UP WITH TIGERS UNDER SHUTOUT BY 3 TO 2 WIN BY PITTSBURGH

CLEVELAND, June 16—The Cleveland Indians prepared to meet the Chicago White Sox today after evening up the series with Detroit last night, winning the ball game 3 to 2.

Paul Trout was able to keep the Indians batters at bay until the seventh when the Tribe cut loose with a two-run rally to put the game on ice.

The game went 13 innings after the Tigers tied it up in the ninth at two all. Joe Heving was credited with the victory.

CINCINNATI, June 16—The Cincinnati Reds today smarted under the 1 to 0 score pounded out by the Pittsburgh Pirates on the Reds' home grounds yesterday.

The only tally of the game came in the ninth when Bob Elliott hit a single scoring Jeep Handley. Pittsburgh's Max Butcher was given credit for the win. Tom De La Cruz hurled for the losers. He allowed only four hits.

The Reds today traveled to Chicago where they will open against the Cubs. Clyde Shoun is scheduled to take the mound for the visitors. He will be opposed by Paul Derringer.

Circleville and Jaycees Confer Honors On Ted Lewis

FAMOUS NATIVE LIFE MEMBER OF PARK BOARD

Junior Chamber Also Gives Life Membership In Organization

Circleville conferred additional honors on Ted Lewis Thursday when he was made on honorary lifetime member of the Ted Lewis Park commission and also an honorary life member of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A delegation of 19 Circleville citizens made the presentation at the Palace theatre, Columbus, where Ted and his troupe showed to capacity audiences this week.

The local group occupied a box near the stage and was the center of all eyes when Ted threw the spot light on the box. He asked, "Is anyone here from Circleville?" The entire theatre also was dotted with standing figures.

Ted's show closed its engagement in Columbus Thursday night and will open Friday in Cincinnati. He went directly to that city last night.

The scroll given by the Junior Chamber of Commerce read: This is to certify that Ted Lewis has been elected to a Lifetime Honorary Membership in The Junior Chamber of Commerce in recognition of his faithful interest in the civic affairs of the City of Circleville, Ohio. Executed this 15th day of June, 1944, and signed by Boyd Stout, president; Frank Wanz, secretary; Harold Clifton, John Moore, Robert Lawrence, Sheldon Mader, Kenneth Dhlman, Elliot White, Harry Graef, Frank Suss, LaVerne Scramton and Judson Lannan, as directors.

Mayor Ben Gordon in his letter to Mr. Lewis said:

"Having due regard for and being very thankful for the many special considerations that you have bestowed upon the Ted Lewis Recreation Park of the city of Circleville, Ohio, especially those considerations of the week of June 14, 1944, when you graced the opening and dedication of the said park with your presence and contributed liberally for the upkeep and maintenance of the said park, I, acting in my capacity as mayor of the city of Circleville, Ohio, do hereby confer upon you a lifetime honorary membership of the board of park control of the city of Circleville, Ohio.

"Acting in such capacity, it will always be your privilege and pleasure to consult with and advise with the regular appointed members of the board of Park Control of the City of Circleville, Ohio, in the interest and welfare of this recreation park which bears your name.

"Given under my hand and seal this 15th day of June, 1944, and signed by Ben Gordon, Mayor of the city of Circleville, Ohio.

Members of the delegation to Columbus were, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Stout, Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Hawks, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot White, Mrs. Judson Lannan, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Lee, Harry Graef, LaVerne Scramton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wanz and Leon Gordon.

MOYER FUNERAL

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon for Mrs. Mamie Belle Moyer, 66, wife of Jesse Arthur Moyer at the Jerusalem Reformed church South of Bremen. Mrs. Moyer died at her home in that vicinity Wednesday. She leaves five sons: Ralph of Rushville, Pearl of Columbus, Lester of Dover, Lloyd of Bremen and Corporal Jesse Arthur Moyer, Jr., stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C.; two brothers, Arthur Lape, Circleville and Clarence Lape, Stoutsville and one sister Miss Florence Lape, Columbus.

Burial was made in Grandview cemetery, Lancaster.

FATHER'S DAY OBSERVED BY ROTARY CLUB

"Father's Day" was the subject of a talk by Carl Leist before the Rotary Club Thursday. He said, "Father is a kin you love to touch".

He concluded his talk by singing two solos, "Marching Along Together" and a parody on "Dear Old Girl".

George Griffith then took over the program and after giving some information that he had learned about the work that his son is doing as a member of the Armed Forces introduced other members of the club who have sons or sons-in-law in the service.

Members who were introduced and spoke briefly were F. E. Barnhill, Clarence Barnhart, Fred Moeller, Lawrence Liston, The Rev. Clarence Swearingen, Harry Heffner, George Foreman, Charles T. Gilmore and Harry Hill.

moans Happy, "is the weakest floor leader in years. . . The trouble is that we don't have more leaders in the Senate like me. . . Personally, I don't care whether Roosevelt wins or not. . . If Mark Ethridge (Louisville Courier-Journal Publisher) should be Democratic keynoter, I'd walk out." . . The unhappy Senator recently asked Smith Hays, county attorney for Clark County, to start a Chandler-for-Vice-President move. Replied Hays: "I'll be all I can do to keep 'em from passing a resolution denouncing you."

REPUBLICAN GOSSIP—GOP keynoter Warren hasn't consulted anyone around Capitol Hill about his coming forensic offering at Chicago. Governor Stassen, keynoter in 1940, made a bit by coming to Washington and talking things over, so Republican Senators are a bit peeved at Warren . . . It was significant that the Republican Congressmen voted en masse to cut the UNRRA European relief appropriation only after consulting Dewey's New York State mogul, Russell Sprague. Sprague came to Washington, huddled with the GOPers. Then they voted to cut the UNRRA fund . . . Several GOP Vice Presidential boomlets are testing the wind: — Bill Hutcheson, head of the AFL carpenters' union, who hates FDR and teams with John L. Lewis; U. S. Chamber of Commerce chief Eric Johnston; Illinois Congressman Everett Dirksen. The last-named has the most strength . . . Buffalo's Republican Representative Mruk accuses Dewey's right bower, Ed Jaekle, of being a political dictator. Because Mruk voted for Roosevelt's soldier-vote bill, Jaekle won't let him run for re-election.

DEMOCRATIC NOTES — Irish Democratic boss Bob Hannegan is quoted as saying: "I've been in twenty-five States and not seen a single person in favor of Wallace." Hannegan says he's for an organization Democrat as Vice President, not a former Republican, and that he thinks Wallace is through . . . This should please the boys in Texas . . . The Staten Island Democratic defeat by a Republican for Congressman was a worse blow than those at the top want to admit . . . Those around the White House say FDR has gone cagey lately about running again.

NOT SUCH GOOD NEIGHBORS — Insiders have known for some time what Dr. Hernane Tavares blasted loose last week — that Good Neighbor relations with Latin America were slipping. The slip started when Sumner Welles got out of the State Department. He had a sixth sense about Pan-American good will, watched the little things, such as the speech Secretary Knox almost made telling Brazil how we were going to keep Brazilian bases after the war . . . Lend-Lease and Rockefeller propaganda won't buy friendship. Friendship is a job you have to work at . . . Brazilian Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha has taken advantage of U. S. failure to lead by becoming the new leader of Latin America. He has put Brazil into the one-time post-tion of the U. S. A. . . What grips Latins most is talk of our keeping troops on their soil after the war. They let U. S. troops on their soil as a matter of courtesy but, after the war, they want 'em off. All the boats and guns in the Hemisphere won't buy those bases . . .
